Teaching and building relationships with 21st-century children- Dr John Thurlow (1 session)

Every generation has particular needs, expectations and ways of doing things. These generational shifts need to be considered to maximise the experience of teaching and learning. This presentation examines the uniqueness of Generation Z children; then considers how best to build relationships with them; and finally explores how they learn.

All teachers

[Course number 2018/ 393]

Strength in struggle - Dr Judy Jaye (1 session)

This session will explore practical techniques to harness stress and manage it in a positive, proactive manner.

All teachers

[Course number 2018/ 394]

Developing healthy listening skills- Pamela Diesel (1 session)

For effective learning to take place, learners need to develop positive listening skills.

Foundation Phase teachers

[Course number 2018/395]

Integrating ICT into our classrooms- Jason Fisher (1 session)

The integration of ICT involves more than just a digital textbook. During this session learn how to integrate the tools (mainly free technology tools) in all your subjects and also assessment practices. Teachers will learn how to adapt the ideas of good practice to their contexts.

Intermediate and senior phase teachers

[Course number 2018/396]

Productive Homework- Dr Anthea Cereseto (1 session)

How beneficial is homework for learners and are there ways to ensure that homework tasks assigned are, in fact, productive?

Teachers from Intermediate Phase and Senior Phase

5 SACE CPTD points

[Course number 2018/397]

Bullying or age appropriate behavior? - Pamela Diesel (1 session)

Let us teach our children to embrace their differences and similarities. Let's assist young children to focus on kindness and empathy as the norm.

Foundation Phase teachers

[Course number 2018/398]

Left and right handedness- Gail Freedman (1 session)

Left or right handedness is more than a silly matter. It is a symbol of the way in which a person expresses him or herself. Left or right handedness is genetically determined and if nature takes its course, the dominant hand determines how a person impacts on the world.

- What is hand dominance
- What are the implications for learning, writing and communication in general
- Being left handed in a right hand world
- What can I do to determine functional dominance
- What can I do to improve pencilgrip and penmanship?

Foundation and Intermediate Phase teachers

[Course number 2018/399]

Comprehension skills - Donna Holmes (1 session)

Comprehension skills have been an issue of debate. The PIRLS results published at the end of 2017, placed South Africa's literacy levels last out of 50 countries worldwide and raised the question, 'How is it possible that 78% of our Grade 4 learners don't understand what they read?'

This interactive workshop looks at the use of Oral Language Skills to uplift the levels of comprehension in the classroom and offers a variety of techniques to aid practical application.

Foundation Phase teachers

[Course number 2018/ 400]

Productive lesson planning- Dr Anthea Cereseto (1 session)

This session focuses on how to plan lessons that will maximise the efficient and productive use of classroom / contact time.

Intermediate and Senior Phase teachers

5 SACE CPTD points

[Course number 2018/401]

Teaching reading in the Intermediate and senior phases- Ellouise Richter

There continue to be reports on the poor reading skills of South African learners. This session focuses on what teachers in higher grades can do to improve learners' reading skills and prepare them for the demands of the senior and FET phases.

Intermediate and Senior Phase language teachers
